U.S. ELECTS ITS FIRST BLACK PRESIDENT

America Makes History— On Tuesday, November 4, 2008 at 8:23pm cst, America elects the nations very first African-American President. It only took two years of strategic campaigning but over forty years of test, trails, struggles, pains, heartaches, determination, prayer, hope and faith that a dream foretold a long time ago by Kennedy (in about 40 years, a African-American could be running for the Presidency), and MLK Jr. (one day we will be judged by the content of our character and not the color of our skin), (we will make it to the promise land, I might not get there with you, but we shall overcome), and their words echoed loud and clear for a young Democratic Senator named Barack Obama. President-elect Obama, who coin the phrase, "Yes We Can," proved to every American that you can achieve whatever dream you desire and for millions of Americans, he have shown us that you can even become President of the United States of America regardless of your skin color.

We are ecstatic to welcome and congratulated President-elect Barack Obama on becoming the 44th President of the USA and being the first Black American elected to the highest seat in the nation. For every person living this great nation, you no longer can live behind the excuse that you can't, in fact according to your new president, "Yes You Can." Speaking from a personal level, I feel that everything that those brave and courageous people that came before us; fought so hard for, endured and even gave their lives, that we as a people will have the same freedom, chances and rights as everyone else in this country. The freedom to vote, life, liberty and happiness. As I sat and watch the announcement of our new president, I couldn't help but to feel a bit of satisfaction that the battles fought for us was not in vain.

Just as we've made an historical statement and event this past Tuesday, we continue to fight a battle for the Lord against the devil. As members of RHM remember to keep our new president, his family and the leaders of this world, in our daily prayers that they will govern according to the will of our Lord and Savior. You can view more about Obama on our newly updated website www.rhmonline.org, and remember, "Yes We Can."

Spotlights Bro. William Slaughter

with Tasha Q. How long have you been a member of RHM?

A. About six years now.

Q. What made you want to join this ministry?

A. Once I really started listening to what was being taught and who was teaching, I got caught up, plus the atmosphere and people here made you feel welcome and wanted, so I couldn't resist.

Q. What do you do for a living?

A. Right now I'm a merchandise load manager for Buffalo Rock Pepsi. I also co-own a small business support company with my wife.

Q. What does a load manger do and what's your business called.

A. As a load manager I oversee a crew of 15 people and load our delivery trucks by computer. Our business is called TradMarx Solutions LLC. We do a little bit of everything there, basically whatever the customer needs.

Q. Where do you see your future role here at RHM?

A. Man, that's a good one, there's so many opportunities here. I enjoy the positions I serve in now and look to improve on them more as we grow. You know I got to be ready when we move into our larger facility.

Q. Where do you see RHM in 3 years?

A. I honestly see us expanding, you know, our membership, our building, our services, our outreach. I really see us taking on a more active role in this community as well as in the church. I think the next couple of years we'll see a flood of growth and I can't wait.

Q. One piece of advice you would give is?

A. To stay encourage and never give up. The sky isn't even the limit anymore, just ask Barack.

Q. Tell us something must people don't know about you.

A. Well let's see....aah, I'm really not as crazy as some people think I am, just ask Sis. Underwood....haha.
